COURSE CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Provides students with an opportunity to develop an understanding of the assessment and evaluation process used in cardio-respiratory training and anaerobic conditioning for healthy, athletic, and symptomatic populations.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the completion of this course students should be able to:

1. Implement the principles of specificity and progressive overload into exercise program design.
2. Apply the theories of behavior change and motivational strategies to exercise adherence.
3. Apply results of fitness assessments to create fitness programs.
4. Develop single session and long-term fitness training plans for apparently healthy, asymptomatic clients.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Students are held to the standards of the George Mason University Honor Code. This course will include both lecture and laboratory instruction. Students are expected to attend all class sections, actively participate in class discussions, complete in-class exercises, and fulfill all assignments. Assignments must be turned in at the beginning of class on the specified date due or no credit will be given.

Since this course requires significant active participation, students must be dressed in appropriate fitness wear during some class sessions. Notification will be given when active dress is required.

Many of the concepts covered in this course will prepare the student to take the American College of Sports Medicine (ACSM) Health Fitness Specialist (HFS) exam; however this is NOT a preparation course for the ACSM-HFS exam.

NATURE OF COURSE DELIVERY

This course will include both lecture and laboratory instruction

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS:

This course requires a laboratory fee of $25.00 payable to George Mason University. This fee is due at the beginning of the second-class meeting (August 29, 2013) and you need to pay online at:
